

Information about delivery of waste – Visnes Kalk AS

The Importance of Proper Waste Delivery

All waste from ships must be delivered to the port's reception scheme in a correct and responsible manner. Proper sorting and delivery helps prevent pollution of the sea and land and ensures that the waste is handled and further delivered in accordance with current regulations.

Notification and delivery of waste

The need for delivery of waste must be reported to Visnes Kalk AS in advance.

The ship must provide information about the types of waste and the approximate quantities that are to be delivered. Visnes Kalk AS will indicate the delivery location and inform about any special handling.

The waste must be sorted, properly packaged and secured against leakage, spread and contamination, and delivered in the designated reception container/container. When waste is delivered to the port, a waste receipt will be issued to the master.

Food waste from vessels in international traffic: The need for delivery must be agreed in advance and handled in accordance with applicable requirements.

Waste received by the port is delivered on to approved waste recipients in accordance with Visnes Kalk AS's waste agreements, including Vartdal Gjenvinning AS and Franzefoss.

Fee

Visnes Kalk AS charges a general waste fee of NOK 100 excl. VAT per port call.

The fee is charged regardless of whether the vessel actually delivers waste at the individual port of call.

For ships with regular calls, an annual fee or other equivalent fee scheme may be used by agreement.

Special handling of waste that entails additional costs may result in an additional fee. Any surcharges are calculated on the basis of, among other things, the type of waste, the amount and the costs of special treatment.
